Dialectics –

First, the process of living well, then a crisis, a depression, which goes on as worst. Then of course, a movement of music, should we read Proust – this process shifted to Proust, reads it as worldy signs, which it means is envy which also means difficulties. Now the movement re-formulates a crisis, to its own answer, something like the process of music, is then to form principles – the wave, its crisis, and its resolution and another wave.

Now this crisis, is resolving, but coming back – we call this essential, essence, reflection.

I mean then objective spirit is going on – which then is music, which means this type of process, you call studies. It has a metaphor, that one should then list the process of recovery as process –

1. Working out a study.
2. Keep working out a process.

Open dialectics –

A movement of jazz commentary, a movement of checking the process – what is here is a crisis, now check it, re-asses it, which then produces a Event – like Proust. Now it can fail, but checks again, and when it is struggling, it answers it utopianly. We need to change the valence – the worst crisis saved people and now I am free.

Now just utopianise – Ernst Bloch means be creative and it wins.

Be writerly.

Althusser voice sounding as well.